A N EDITORAL FROM THE SUNDAY MERCURY, OF March 21, 1852.

ROBACK's fame the world pervades,
The press his triumphs tell,
And from the north, south, east and west,
The notes of glory swell.

The power of the press is mighty, and wilt prevail. The wenders of Astrology. People who suppose that astrology is not a science are greatly mistaken. To work out its results, arithmetic, alge'ra, and astronomy are brought into play, and the calculations upon which horoscopes are framed and nativities cast are of the most abstruse character. The astrologer is no ignorant pretender. He works by rules as old as the Scriptures themselves, for almost at the earliest period of Scriptures themselves, for almost at the earliest period of Scriptures themselves, for almost at the earliest period of Scriptural history the Chaldean priests practised astrology, and even as late as the reign of Louis XI. of France, it ranked among the exact sciences. Certainly an art so antique, so universally believed in for thousands of years, and based upon the movements of the celestial bodies, is entitled to more respect than the absurd theory of spirit-rappines, biology, &c., now so generally swallowed. Dr. Roback, better known, perhaps, than any other astrologer of our day, professes the have not only revived the art in all its force and accuracy, but in the study of years to have added very largely to its resource. It is quite certain that many of his predictions made in this city have been fulfilled to the letter. To those who are skeptical as to his skill, he offers to give indisputable proof of his knowledge of the future and the past, at his residence, No. 6 White street.

JUST PUBLISHED.—DR. B. DE LANEY, ON THE RAtional treatment of nervous and constitutional debility, giving the only true and effectual treatments of those deplarable infirmities and disorders of youth and maturity, produced by delusive shelts and excesses, appearing in the form of local weakness, exhauction of muscular energy, loss of mental and physical capacity, &c. This pampibet is addressed to the sufferer in youth, manhood, and old age, and is wholly different from the many quask publications advertised in the public papers, pointing out to suffering humanity a certain and very cheap remedy for those complaints, and avoiding every word which nunceessarily could frighten, instead of instructing, the unfortunate. If it has no other merit, it at least has the merit of being candid, and of giving the means for a perfect and secret restreation of vigorous health. To those contemplating marriage it is of the highest importance. By addressing, post-paid, box 109
